TERMS AND CONDITIONS
Lead Times The quoted lead time is just an estimate of fabrication time from your date of order. It is not a guarantee. You will be contacted 6 weeks before your trailer is completed to schedule a pickup.
Picking up your Trailer You are expected to pick up your trailer within 30 days of completion. If there is a delay in sourcing components (awnings, etc) that do not impact the functionality of the trailer, we will still contact you to schedule a pickup. You will have the option of canceling the delayed item or we will ship it to you when we receive it. Final payment must be collected within 30 days after notification of completion.
If you do not pick up your trailer within 30 days of your completion notification, Bean reserves the right to: 1. Cancel the order. If Bean elects to cancel your order, you will receive a full refund of the deposit. 2. Charge storage fees of $250 per month until you pick up your trailer. Storage fees are triggered on the first day of every month and are not prorated. If Bean cancels your order while in storage, your accumulated storage fees will be deducted from your deposit. 3. Sell your completed trailer to a different customer and build you a new trailer with its associated lead time delay.
Supply Chain Issues We occasionally experience supply chain issues that could impact our ability to complete your trailer within the estimated lead times. Sometimes we can mitigate the delay by sourcing alternative components or using different processes. Examples include, but are not limited to; tires, mattresses, doors, etc. Process changes may include frame coating, painting finished surfaces vs gelcoat, etc. Any change made will meet or exceed the durability and functionality specifications of the previous material or component.
Gel Coat Finish The one-piece shell on Bean Trailer is extremely durable and results in a beautiful, refined product. However, because it is a custom molded product, every Bean is slightly different and will have minor cosmetic flaws that make your Bean unique. These imperfections can include: A. Small pin holes in the gelcoat (colored surface). B. Minor variations in gloss from one area to the next. C. Small areas with concentrations of tiny specs in the gelcoat. D. Spider cracks in the gelcoat; tiny fractures that look like hairs spreading out from a central point. These are not structural cracks, and you will develop additional ones as you use your trailer.
You should also know: 1. Parts or all of the finish of your trailer can be gelcoat and or painted. Both are extremely UV resistant and durable. 2. Fiberglass is impact resistant, but you can develop small chips in the gelcoat finish. Those chips are most likely to occur on the lead edge of the passenger and driver side trim and on trailers with fiberglass fenders. We recommend you install mud flaps on your tow vehicle to minimize rock chips on your fiberglass.
Deposit The deposit and signed order trigger Bean to schedule your trailer for production. Your deposit is non-refundable. If you wish to cancel your order, you can request cancellation in writing by notifying us via email at cindyh@beantrailer.com
Change Orders Once your order is in our system it may still be possible to make changes to your configuration under the following conditions: 1. Your order is not in production and the requested changes would not result in delays or rework. 2. You agree to pay applicable fees associated with your requested changes such as additional features, charges for components that we have already sourced against your order, any additional labor needed to revise your order.
